ARMED LINER RUNS GAUNTLET

Steamer St. Louis Docks from Great Britain Port.

Eaves Lurking Submarines and Grazes Mines.

Perils Made Greater by a Gale in Danger Zone.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.) NEW YORK, April 9.—Running safely through the dangers of the German submarine blockade of Great Britain and without sighting a periscope either on the outward or homeward journey, the American mail and passenger liner St. Louis arrived at her home dock today.

The St. Louis was the first American passenger vessel to be armed and to travel through the danger zone around the British Isles since Germany's declaration of January 31, and she was well armed for the trip.

The homeward voyage was a stormy one. A hundred miles off the coast of Ireland a gale threatened the destruction of the lifeboat which had been partly lowered, and it became necessary to tie to for two into the war zone.

This was an anxious time, as the step was made directly in the normal path of German submarines returning to their home base.

GOOD LUCK SAVED HER. Now that the American ship has completed her memorable voyage, it is possible to tell how good luck probably saved her from destruction.

There appears no room for doubt that the German Admiralty knew of her departure, and took steps to destroy her. The British patrol fleet knew this and so did those in command of the St. Louis before she was into the war zone.

At full speed during the night with the coast of Ireland and its submarine-infested waters in the distance, "St. Louis" calls of ships in distress came to the watchful wireless operator of the St. Louis. A ship had been torpedoed about seventy-five miles ahead of the St. Louis, and directly in her path.

Soon another call for help showed that another steamer had met the same fate a hundred miles south, while a third told of the destruction of a British boat far to the westward, out of the war zone, and in the path the St. Louis had traveled.

WAITED FOR PILOT. The St. Louis arrived off the bar of Harer before dawn. There was no pilot boat at hand, and the American liner was compelled to steam outside the bar, where it was known a German submarine had been working the night before, until driven away by patrol boats.

During this time a neutral steamer which had been in the harbor had attempted to go to sea. She was caught dropping mines inside the bar, eighty of them being strewn about it was reported. Patrol boats picked up or destroyed all but two of these.

The St. Louis crossed the bar and went up the narrow channel about 10 o'clock in the morning. About an hour later the British steamer Kelvin Head crossed the bar, struck one of the lost mines and sank.

The St. Louis could not have missed this mine by more than twenty feet. How she escaped destruction was a mystery to the British officers, and the amazed Americans were congratulated when they reached their dock.

It was the report around the Liverpool docks that the vessel caught strewing mines was a Swedish boat.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.) NEW YORK, April 9.—The American ship St. Louis was reported torpedoed and sunk without warning in the Mediterranean by a German submarine, in a dispatch to the State Department today from Consul Gaullin at Marseilles.

All of the crew of thirty-one was said to have been saved. Consul Gaullin's message, dated April 9, follows: "Paper reports American steamer Seward (probably Seward) torpedoed and sunk without warning by German submarine twenty miles off Banyuls. Entire crew, thirty-one members, also reported saved. Fifteen sailed in bark for Cerbere. Sixteen, including captain and one officer, landed from boat at Banyuls 11:30 o'clock evening 7th inst. No other particulars available at present."

CARRIED MANY CITIZENS. (BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.) NEW YORK, April 9.—The American steamship Seward, owned by the Alpha Steamship Company, left here March 3 for Genoa and other Mediterranean ports. She was in command of Capt. Philip V. Johnson and carried a crew of thirty-eight men, of whom thirty were American citizens, according to the shipping commissioner's records.

The Seward was built at Seattle, Wash., in 1907 and registered 230 tons gross, 2380 tons net. She was 270 feet long with a beam of forty-two feet. She carried a general cargo, valued at close to $100,000.

There is but one sentiment permissible today—that sentiment is absolute," he said.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.) BOSTON, April 9.—Cardinal O'Connell tonight issued a statement calling upon the nation "to get up from its knees, banded during Holy Week, and 'hasten now to act. We have spoken enough."

"There is but one sentiment permissible today—that sentiment is absolute," he said.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.) WASHINGTON, April 9.—America's commercial relations with the Entente Allies and with the Central Powers are being studied by a government committee to determine whether trade legislation is made necessary by the declaration of war with Germany. Britain's trading with-the-enemy act and the Allies' trade co-operation measures are under investigation. Although no move has been made yet toward commercial co-operation with the Allies there is every reason to believe that the United States will decide to co-operate as fully in trade matters as in military affairs.

The government probably will invite the trade commission of the Allies to visit Washington. The United States will aid Britain, too, in rationing the northern neutrals, through which countries heretofore a vast amount of supplies has reached Germany from the United States.

One of Britain's first acts now probably will be to make imperative its blacklist decree in so far as it applies to the United States.

Although legislation undoubtedly will be asked of Congress to prevent trading with the enemy there apparently is no disposition to prevent the commerce of the United States with American citizens with enemy aliens within the United States. So long as aliens observe the country's laws their trade rights will be given equal consideration with their personal rights.

On the committee named to study the trade situation are Dr. Edward E. Pratt, chief of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce; L. H. Woolsey, solicitor of the State Department; and Asst. Atty.-Gen. Warren.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.) WASHINGTON, April 9.—The Italian government, dispatches to the Commerce Department today said, has put rigid restrictions on imports. Only these goods will be admitted: Commodities imported by the government; foodstuffs and raw materials to be designated by the government; such large quantities of merchandise of known origin as may be admitted by special decrees and goods for which special permits will be issued.

In taking this action, Italy is following the example of the other Allied countries.

(BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.) AMSTERDAM (via London) April 9, 11:40 a.m.—The frontier correspondent of the Telegram suggests that the recklessness shown by German submarines is due to the big financial rewards offered to the crews by the German government. The men who man the submarines get 10 per cent. higher pay than those of any other branch of the national service, and receive in addition substantial bonuses.

Fifty per cent. of the value of a captured ship is distributed among her captors, 5 per cent. to the commander of the submarine, 5 to the chief engineer, 3 to the remaining officers and 25 to the crew. Percentages for torpedoed ships are based on the insurance value of the vessel. In these cases the submarine commander gets 1 per cent., the chief engineer 1, the remaining officers 4 and the crew 10. There are also extra rewards for special exploits.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.) WASHINGTON, April 9.—War-time need of platinum for scientific purposes has prompted an appeal from the government to the country's jewelers to use substitute for platinum wherever possible in mounting precious stones.

SUBMARINE CREWS GAIN BY CAPTURES. (BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.) AMSTERDAM (via London) April 9, 11:40 a.m.—The frontier correspondent of the Telegram suggests that the recklessness shown by German submarines is due to the big financial rewards offered to the crews by the German government. The men who man the submarines get 10 per cent. higher pay than those of any other branch of the national service, and receive in addition substantial bonuses.

Fifty per cent. of the value of a captured ship is distributed among her captors, 5 per cent. to the commander of the submarine, 5 to the chief engineer, 3 to the remaining officers and 25 to the crew. Percentages for torpedoed ships are based on the insurance value of the vessel. In these cases the submarine commander gets 1 per cent., the chief engineer 1, the remaining officers 4 and the crew 10. There are also extra rewards for special exploits.

BLESSING IN DISGUISE
The directors of the San Antonio opinion that the car shipping the past six months has been

It's toasted

As you bite into your crisp slice of morning toast, give it an extra thought. Think how delicious it is; freshly-made, buttered hot.

Toast is an everyday matter, of course, but one of the real things you have to be thankful for.

Now you're ready for the special idea on this delicious new Lucky Strike cigarette. The tobacco—it's toasted; and doesn't that give it a flavor though? Well, you know!

We've been working for five years to make a cigarette out of Burley tobacco. It's "blame good" tobacco; and you smokers have shown us how strong you were for it.

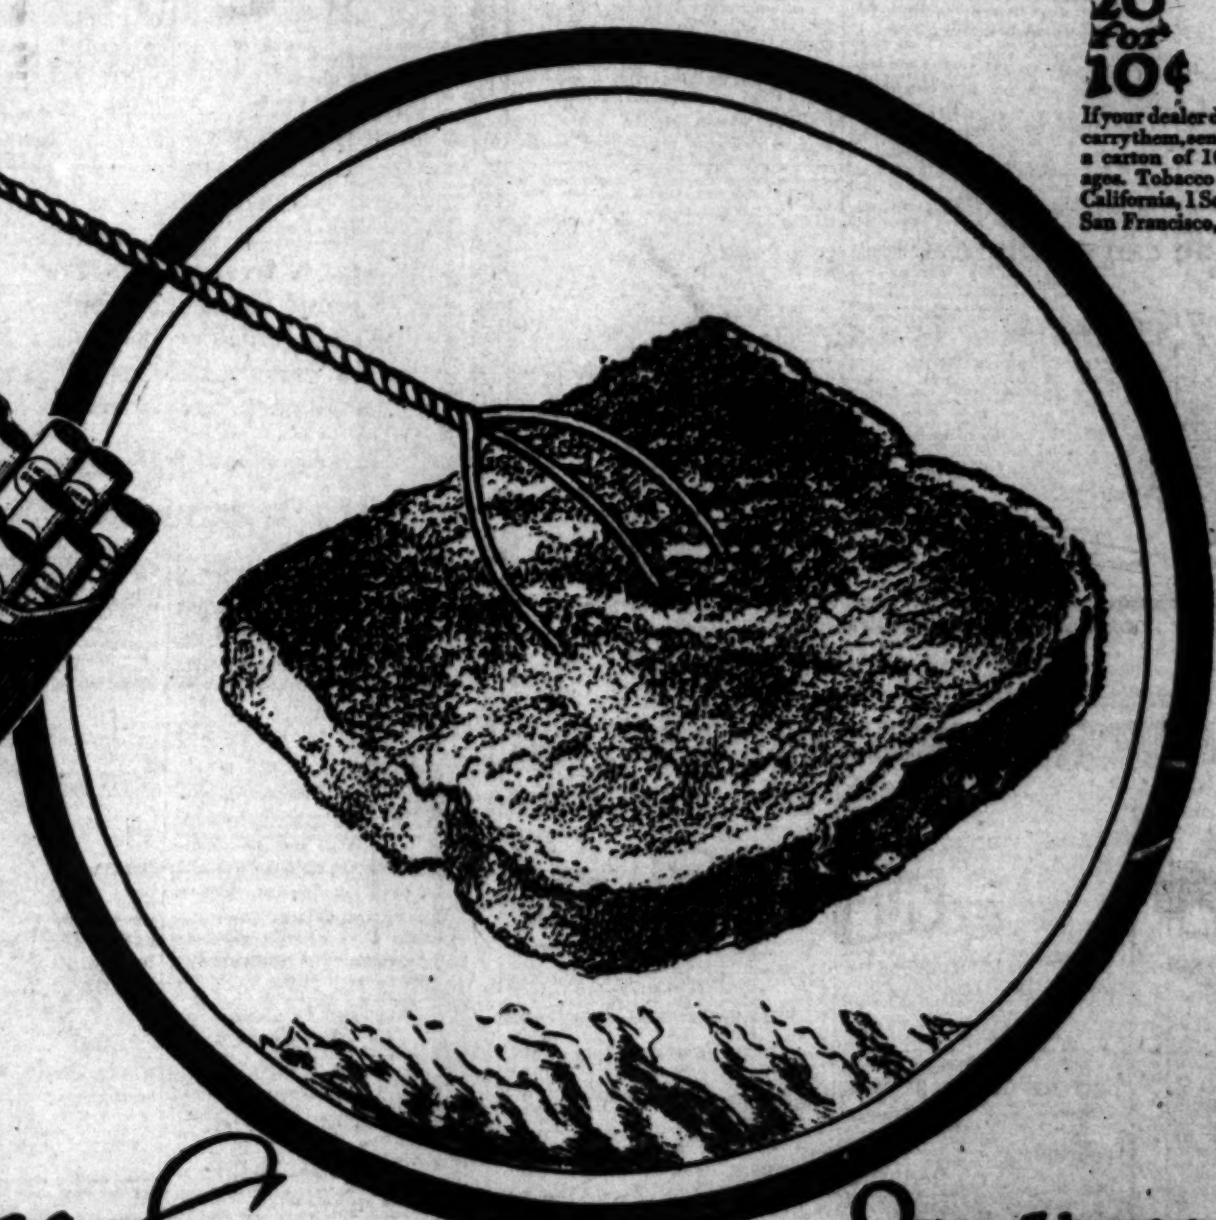

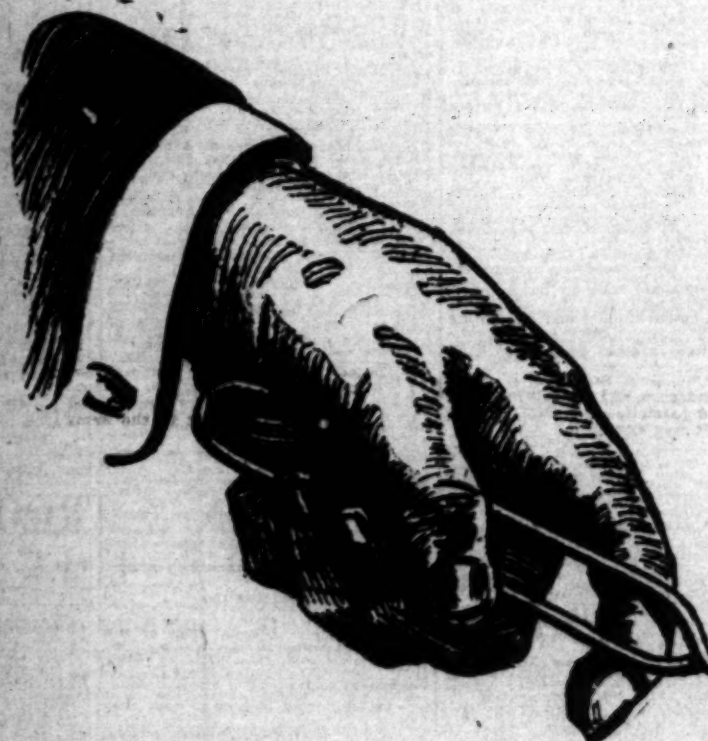

Last year you poured sixty million pounds out of those green, red and blue tins. That's enough for 35 billion cigarettes—against about 21 billion ready-made cigarettes sold in 1916. Considerable Burley enthusiasm!

Big discoveries are simple ideas

Until we went back to the toasting fork and old kitchen stove, to the simple idea of hot buttered toast, a ready-made Burley cigarette wasn't possible. The Burley flavor didn't hold. But now it does.

Now Lucky Strike—the real Burley cigarette

It's toasted—and the flavor holds. It's toasted—the result is delicious, full of flavor. Keep thinking of that hot buttered toast—and try a Lucky Strike cigarette today.

Below is Francis Scott Key Deuber, great-grandson of the author of "The Star Spangled Banner" and now a recruit in the Marine Corps. The others are Mr. and Mrs. Raymond M. Phillips, photographed at their wedding under the flag yesterday.

In the Blood.

GREAT-GREAT-GRANDSON OF KEY A MARINE HERE.

LOS ANGELES has the distinction of having the youngest member in the United States Marine Corps. He is Francis Scott Key Deuber, who will be 16 years old May 17. According to his mother, he is the great-great-grandson of Francis Scott Key, author of "The Star Spangled Banner."

Young Deuber was a student at the Los Angeles High School when rumblings of trouble with Germany began several months ago. He is six feet tall and weighs 185 pounds. He was at first rejected by the recruiting officers on account of his age. Later, a special order was made because of his distinguished ancestry and his superb physique. He is now a recruit in the Marine Corps, No. 416 West Forty-second street, aiding him in his desire by giving

SAYS JAPANESE FLEET WILL ASSIST AMERICA.

HISAKI KANO, a Japanese banker of Yokohama, says that within a short time the Japanese navy will be in co-operation with the American navy in riding the Atlantic of German submarines. He bases his opinion on official information which, he states, he received just before sailing from the Orient. Mr. Kano is a guest at the Maryland Hotel in Pasadena. "Up to this time our fleet has been kept busy guarding British interests in the Orient," the visitor declared. "But I expect to see a number of our battleships fighting side by side

LEXINGTON DAY TO BE RECRUITING DAY HERE.

THE anniversary of the battle of Lexington, Thursday, the 19th inst., will be designated by Mayor Woodman, it was announced yesterday, as "Recruiting Day" in Los Angeles. In a number of eastern communities this same date has been fixed upon as an opportunity to bring out the thousands of men who really should recruit, but have failed to do so. The plan originated with the National Defense Association, with headquarters in New York.

When word of the plan was sent Mayor Woodman he immediately declared it to be an opportune date for the display of a special brand of patriotism, and immediately started to draw up a proclamation to the citizens of Los Angeles designating the day for recruiting. This announcement will be issued to the City Council and the people during the next day or two.

During the day, "Paul Revere's Ride" will be read in the schools, churches and theaters. It will be shown also in printed form on the Chickering Piano used by Jenny Lind, probably in the year 1854. Her autograph reproduced below was taken direct from the instrument.

Jenny Lind HER PIANO
From Jenny Lind to Galli-Curci—
ONE of the most trying tests that can be assigned a piano is that of accompanying a great soprano voice. In the ringing clarity of the upper register and the flute-like runs of the coloratura passages, the piano is called upon for a background as crisp, as limpid, as the vocalization itself.
Jenny Lind, of beloved memory, sang to the Chickering's accompaniment.
Amelia Galli-Curci, acclaimed as greater than Patti, has also found in the Chickering the voice-like qualities that most acceptably sustain her wonderful tones.
And Richard Buhlig, America's great pianist, declares "it can thunder with elemental power."
Beautiful tone, sympathetic tone, powerful tone! The first and last requisites of a really great piano are tone beauty and tone uniformity.

CHIEF EVENTS OF YESTERDAY.
(At Home.) New York banking interests were disappointed at the absence of definite information from Washington regarding prospective government bond issues and the question of taxation, matters regarding which Wall street yet has not been consulted by the accredited fiscal authorities. On the Stock Exchange, the bond list was heavy, numerous domestic issues receding from one-half to a full point. International, however, were strong. Government bonds advanced two points in the coupon four on call.

NO KAISER ABOUT IT.
The owners of the Kaiserhof Hotel in Chicago have changed the name of the place to "The Atlantic." There seems to be a sort of growing sentiment in the United States that is somewhat unfavorable to anything that smacks of the spirit of Kaiserism.

"MEASURE FOR MEASURE."
The Pacific Coast ship Sequeya is the first American boat known to have actually started things against the destructive sea sharks of Germany. The Sequeya sent the crew of a German U-boat "to join the victims of the Lusitania and Laconia." Eye for eye, tooth for tooth, measure for measure is the nature of war. Why war?

CELEBRATING EASTER.
Nowhere on earth is Easter celebrated by so many people and in such a glorious manner as in Southern California. Never as Easter passes that thousands of people do not congregate on the high hills to sing praises to the Prince of Peace. And as the vast throngs stand and sing or kneel to pray a million wild flowers, symbols of the resurrection, turn their bright faces heavenward as if they felt the gladness of the world.

A CASE OF NECESSITY.
Influential business men of the East are talking of mobilizing a big "Tartarus army" to take the place of the many able-bodied young men who will soon leave the farms for the army and navy. Many men who would be rejected for army service could serve their country as well and as faithfully by going to the farms and raising food for the boys in the field. We will have to have food, and lots of it, and the bigger the farming army the better.

THE PEDAGOGUES' DAY.
This is the day of the schoolmaster. Paul N. Millicoff, Russian Minister of Foreign Affairs, was formerly a professor of the University of Moscow. President Poincare of France was for two years Minister of Public Instruction. Aristide Briand, late Prime Minister of France, once held the same post, while his successor, Alexandre Ribot, reformed the secondary educational system of the country. David Lloyd George is the son of a schoolmaster and Woodrow Wilson was well we all know what he was—he has schoolmastered Princeton and New Jersey and Congress.

TRUE PATRIOTS.
Methodist preachers of Southern California, meeting in Los Angeles, prepared and sent to President Wilson a telegram pledging "co-operation and service to the last full measure of devotion." None but a fool would accuse this splendid body of citizens of being "alarmists." No organization of men on earth stands more solidly for true peace than do these men, whether organized or as individuals, whose business in life is to teach the doctrines advocated by the Prince of Peace. Yet in times of national calamities no men are ever more loyal to their country than they. The step taken by these ministers of the Southland was a wise and noble move, dictated not by hatred or radicalism but by reason and worthy motives. They realize that the progress of the race toward universal peace, even though for honor's sake, the path may lead through the red fields of war, must not be hindered by self-opinionated individuals whose vision extends no further than the limit of their own personal interests.

WAITING.
Already the women of the United States have begun to wait for what toorrow may bring. Already, the ordinary pursuits of life—the coming and going, social affairs, club programmes, even clothes, have lost interest, have ceased to be the vital, all-absorbing topics of thought and conversation among women.
We Americans are beginning, as never before, to comprehend what the women of Europe have endured for the long, long months of conflict. We shrink from higher prices for daily bread; but as yet we cannot realize what lack of bread for weeks and months and years has meant to the women and children across the water. We cry out at the mounting cost of shoes and paper; we have no conception of doing without our footgear or our magazines and daily papers. We tremble at the thought of danger to our own loved ones. Still that danger is, as yet, hazy, impersonal, impossible for us to believe a living reality.
Yet, despite the uncertainty, the fears, the hopes, that are troubling stout hearts, it is the first duty of every American woman to carry an undisturbed face, to accept the situation as the inevitable result of causes beyond our control, and to give every help and support to our government and to the brave men who are preparing to face death, if the need comes. No true woman will allow self-interest and trivial fears to overcome her in these days of standing on the brink of war.

THE PACIFIC AFTER THE WAR.
Considerable attention has been paid to the possible changes in Europe, Asia and Africa expected to follow the signing of peace treaties. In these changes the United States will be only indirectly concerned. The future ownership of the islands in the Pacific—and this matter unless carefully adjusted may sow the seeds of future dissension—is of direct importance to the United States, especially to California, Oregon and Washington.
Germany had formed the nucleus of a little Teutonic archipelago in the Pacific Ocean, which she lost during the first year of the war, some of her islands going to Australia and New Zealand and some to Japan. These Germany is particularly anxious to have restored to her after the war, and these Australia and New Zealand are equally expected to retain permanently. As we too have Pacific islands contiguous to some of those whose status is at present in doubt, we too will have something to say as to their final disposition.
Japan controls so far some of the islands wrested from Germany and she will probably prove to be just as tenacious of her conquests as Australia or New Zealand.
What is to be the fate of the Pacific islands? British statesmen are already agitated over a possible coming clash between Australia and Japan in the formulating of peace terms, for "white Australia" has accepted an alliance with the orientals grudgingly, a little sullenly, and confessedly only as a war necessity.
As to returning her captured Pacific islands to Germany as a quid pro quo for Teutonic concessions in Europe, Australia has declared that she will break her connection with England entirely before she will surrender her newly acquired possessions. Nor will Australia sanction any letting down of the bars against oriental immigration to enable the British empire to repay the debt to Japan for the assistance she has rendered the Allies.
Furthermore, the Australians are strongly opposed to any of the late German islands being ceded permanently to any oriental power. Such a change in the Pacific they look upon as a direct menace to their undeveloped and almost uninhabited northern coast line.
At the same time Japan is hinting pretty plainly that she will expect solid return from the British empire for the work she has done in policing the Pacific. Germany wants her islands back; England wants to use them as leading cards in arranging peace terms; Australia refuses to give them up, and in the Pacific the United States has paramount interests to protect.
The world clouds will not disappear as though by magic at the close of the present war, though it and autocratic government forever on the continent of Europe. The hardest problem will begin when the soldiers are recalled from the present battle fields. And in that problem the adjustments in the Pacific will be one of the most hazardous features. At that time American statecraft will be put to its most crucial test.

CALIFORNIA'S WAR TAX BURDEN.
One of the most important questions which our State will be called upon to solve is that of conserving revenue and preventing economic waste in the expenditure of tax money. In his address before both houses of Congress on April 3 President Wilson outlined the policy of the Federal government in relation to war finances as favoring a plan to raise the additional revenue necessary by taxation in place of war loans. Speaking of war finances the President said:
"It will involve also, of course, the raising of adequate credits to the government, sustained, I hope, so far as they can equitably be sustained, by the present generation by well-conceived taxation. I say sustained so far as it may be equitably by taxation because it seems to me that it would be most unwise to have the credits which will now be necessary entirely on money borrowed. It is our duty, I must respectfully urge, to protect our people so far as we may against the very serious hardships and evils which would be likely to arise out of the inflation which would be produced by vast loans."
Congress has already been asked to authorize a preliminary expenditure of $4,500,000,000 for the conduct of the war. This is in addition to the annual Federal budget of $1,500,000,000 and means that the American people will be asked to contribute $4,500,000,000 to the support of the Federal government during the next twelve months. Speaking in round numbers, one-third of this, or $200,000,000, must come from California. Add our annual expenditure of $176,000,000, yearly for State, county and municipal government and we have an annual tax burden of $376,000,000.

When one stops to realize that the total value of farm products in California last year was but $235,000,000 and that our State and its subdivisions expend $176,000,000 tax money, it is becomes immediately apparent that the burden is greater than the labor and industries of the State can bear. It has already been suggested in a Congressional committee that $3,000,000,000 of this war tax shall be raised by an ad valorem tax based on the assessed valuation of real and personal property in each State. That would mean a tax of $3 on each dollar of real and personal property in California. The California share would be about $100,000,000 and the assessed valuation of all real and personal property is a little less than $3,000,000,000.

An equitable adjustment of the burden of war tax would seem to be that one-half the expense should be raised in current revenue and the other half through the sale of long term bonds. When we shall have brought the present war to a successful conclusion, this generation will have a glorious heritage to turn over to the next, and it is but fair that those who shall reap the benefits should bear a portion of the expense.

But when the burden is adjusted so that California shall pay but $100,000,000 a year to the Federal government, we shall still be more heavily taxed than the citizens of any other State in the Union. During the last six years we have permitted those whom we elected to public office to expend the public money like drunken sailors. The records of the Federal Census Bureau show that a resident of California pays the highest per capita State tax, the highest per capita county tax and the highest per capita municipal tax in the United States. Taking the three in conjunction, we pay about three times the average tax for government paid by the rest of the United States.

The Times has been pleading for the last four years for a more economical administration of our city, county and State governments. We have protested against the increase in the number of bureaus and commissions, against increases in salaries and padded pay rolls. In the present crisis we are impelled to remonstrate anew against the programme of expenditure outlined in the State budget which is under consideration by the State Legislature now in session in Sacramento. This budget provides for an increase of $5,800,000 over the budget of two years ago. Of this sum $2,300,000 is for general or overhead expense. Governor Stephens sounded a warning note for economy in his first message to the Legislature; there has been talk of economy from Sacramento and elsewhere; but the Legislature has already approved more than $1,000,000 of the expense recommended by the budget and not one dollar has been cut from a single item. If this is permitted to continue in the consideration of the remainder of the budget items the State will be plunged into the most reckless career of expenditure in its history, and at the time of the most serious crisis that it has faced since the Civil War.

We had hoped and we still hope for better things. It is not encouraging to find that the chairman of the State Board of Control, that prepared the present pork barrel budget, is also chairman of the Committee of Public Revenue and Finance of the new State Council of Defense. But there are two well known bankers on the Council of Defense Committee, Mortimer Fleischacker and Alden Anderson. It is to be hoped that they will be able to work in conjunction with Governor Stephens to the end that that $5,800,000 increase in the State budget may be wholly eliminated and a comprehensive plan may be mapped out to reduce economic waste in the administration of our State, county and municipal governments. There has been an increase of $75,000,000 in the gross expense of these in five years. Two-thirds of that is just so much pork, and under an administration of rigorous economy, such as present conditions warrant, it could be eliminated.

FOODSTUFFS MOBILIZATION.
Equally important with the enlistment of men for the army and navy is the production of foodstuffs for the whole American nation. Our agricultural army and the work it accomplishes must keep pace with our military needs. Whenever an army is being mobilized the consumption of the necessities of life increases enormously. At high pressure more fuel is burned up. An extra supply must be provided.

No branch of the service is so vital as the commissariat department. Its efficiency rests on the labor of the man behind the plow. Our farmers cannot take down the musket from the wall and fly to the defense of their land and their liberties as did the heroes of Concord in the days of '76. But they can still "fire the shot heard round the world" by determining that no shortage shall be felt in the ammunition that puts the spirit and the strength into the fighting forces, an abundance of all the life-sustaining products of the farm and field.

The food supply of the whole world at the present time is far below the average. While military training develops the mind and body, it also stimulates a healthy appetite for the daily meal. So we shall need all our farmers can raise in the next twelve months, not only for ourselves, but to help sustain the Allies abroad, engaged in the same fight against military domination into which the United States has decided to throw its moral and material weight and strength.

Every tiller of the land, large or small, who expands his output, every agricultural expert who applies his knowledge to the fertilizing of the soil, every pioneer who develops fresh acres and adds new farms to the public domain, is a true American soldier fighting for the flag, shouldering his share of the republic's heavy burden. Destration of our city, county and State governments. We have protested against the increase in the number of bureaus and commissions, against increases in salaries and padded pay rolls. GROWTH OF GOVERNMENT BY THE PEOPLE.

The Swiss and Dutch republics contained the seeds of government by the people. They germinated in England in the seventeenth century under the fostering care of the Puritans. They grew to vigorous life in our own country in the eighteenth century and the latter part of the nineteenth century witnessed their development over all the world.

In 1872 the people in Italy established a government which though still monarchical in form made the royal ministry responsible to a national legislature elected by the people.

France became a republic both in name and substance in 1875 and has remained one ever since without any attempt at change being made by Bourbon or Bonaparte. Spain is in form a monarchy but has been since 1876 in fact a republic in which the people rule.

In the same year Turkey established a parliament which she subsequently lost, but in 1908 ceased to be an empire and became a republic, and a few years later Cuba and Panama became independent. Portugal adopted republicanism in 1910. In 1912 China changed from an empire to a republic and the recent break with Germany was compelled by the people against the desires of the administration.

In Japan the Mikado does not attempt to antagonize measures favored by the legislature. In all the great English colonies—Australia, New Zealand, Canada, Newfoundland and South Africa—excepting India, the government is a government of the people as free as in the United States. Since Russia became a republic Germany and Austria-Hungary are the only absolute monarchies remaining in Europe.

The sovereigns of Greece, Holland, Italy, Rumania, Spain and Sweden are figure-heads on the ship of state, and King George an attack on the United States, he will be in danger of losing his job as chief executive of Mexico.

Yet a little while and the Hohenzollerns, with their records of tyranny and bloodshed, will, with their Austrian ally and proteges, have vanished from power and place as utterly as the Bonapartes and the Bourbons and the Romanoffs, and Germany and Austria-Hungary "redeemed, regenerated and disenthralled," will enter upon a career of greatness and peace and prosperity.

CARRANZA'S PERPLEXITY.
Carranza is between the devil and the deep sea. If he resists German money and influence that are endeavoring to bribe and coerce him into a coalition with Oregon and Villa and the tens of thousands of German reservists in Mexico, into making an attack on the United States, he will be in danger of losing his job as chief executive of Mexico.

If he yields to the seekers for loot and makes war upon the United States he has too much common sense not to know that while he may at the end of hostilities retain his place as President, it will be as President of a Mexico shorn of its northern half, which will inevitably be annexed to the United States.

The Director-General of Public Works at Santo Domingo City, Dominican Republic, will receive proposals for furnishing materials and labor for construction of a new bridge at that country.

NERVOUS MAN IN GOLF.
Should Temperament Not Be Necessary for Making of Good Golfer?
BY GRANTLAND RICE.

The general impression has gone abroad among golfers that a nervous temperament is a distinct disadvantage to success, and that the stolid type only succeeds. This impression might well be characterized as a moth eaten or well out of focus. For it is certainly wrong. In looking back over the lists and studying varying types you will find that a nervous temperament in many ways is needed to help one on to the top.

Possession of a nervous system seems to give one the ammunition for the extra effort that is frequently needed at the supreme moment. The stolid player can move along evenly, but he can rarely rise to the heights. Nervousness is frequently only another form of surplus energy seeking to force its way out. One of the most nervous golfers we have ever seen is Norman Maxwell. Yet this very nervousness is one of the reasons for his fine distance on the tee and for the facility he has of making brilliant shots at some critical moment. In a recent match he had with Gardner White the young Philadelphia star was all even coming to a 440-yard hole, the fourth shot, Pinecroft. He was apparently quite nervous here on the tee, and yet by two great shots in succession he held a 3 against a par 5. White had a 4 and lost the hole.

The general impression is that Travis and Travers are both oppressed by any attack of nerves, whereas both belong to the highly nervous type. Travers especially so. He has told us of championship matches where he was almost too nervous to hold a putter, where he actually dreaded to make the shot, and yet many of these occasions were exactly where he did his finest work. At certain other times, where he felt more or less sluggish and stolid, with no nervousness at all, he was unable to play anything but mediocre golf.

Walter J. also carries a well concealed nervousness. The Old Man gives out the appearance of a vast indifference, whereas he is exceedingly high strung. His appearance of stolidity and absolute calm is merely terrific concentration, just as it is in the case of Travers.

Check Evans belongs to the nervous type, and so do Oswald Kirby and Bob Gardner, two well known stars.

Phil Carter has one peculiar nervousness. He is unable to hit the ball off the tee until he has addressed it with seven waggles, three long and four short. He says that he would be absolutely unable to make his swing if he tried to hit before completing this habit. Part of this is due to self-hypnotism, but this also is a form of nervousness. There have been many cases where nervousness has brought disaster, but this only results when the nervous system breaks away from control. A player can be kept to a high standard and still have a very quiver of it held with an iron grip. You never saw a football game where most of those on the field at the kickoff were not extremely nervous as the whistle blew. Most of the great players always are, for this nervousness is merely fuel to be used later on in the shape of uncovered energy.

RIPLING RHYMES.
SPRING ARRIVED.
I know that spring is here, for at my door appear some seven times a day the birds who won't go 'way until I've had a look at some immortal book, some great and gorgeous tome to ornament my home. "Dee whis, fair dimes," I cry, "no volumes will I buy. Just look around, yourselves, upon my loaded shelves, and you will see, gadroons, how little I need books."

"You need not to invest," exclaim the bookish birds, "but you can not refuse the titles to peruse, the pictures to admire—those pictures which inspire! We ask you not to buy, but just to cast your eye adown the shining page prepared by bard and sage."

In winter I don't fall for this old graft at all; in summer I can shoot the agents from my view, and bid them seek no more my unencumbered door. In autumn I can chase the agents from my place. But when the winter's flown my heart has mellow grown and I'm an easy mark for every smiling agent. I look around my not used junk I've bought, the books I'll never read, by authors gone to seed, and say (and shed a tear), "I know that spring is here!"

MEN MUST KEEP FIT.
By J. MADISON TAYLOR, M.D.
Professor of Applied Therapeutics, Medical Department, Temple University.

EVEN with a nation so numerous as ours, with more than 100,000,000 of people to draw upon for the emergency of war and with no larger armed force than one million contemplated for the present, very grave burdens are on the eve of falling upon the vital powers of the population—on none more than upon these men who, in the nature of the services required, are of an age which, short of such dire necessity as now drains the energies of the Teutonic peoples, precludes their utilization on any prospective fighting fronts.

While our government may not reject for enlistment men of 40 years and over, provided they are otherwise physically fit, the preference must necessarily be for youth, whose sublime elasticity qualifies it for the endurance which, more than any other factor, is the soldierly need.

Men approaching and in middle age have been found far more useful, particularly in modern warfare, for the labor which suffice to keep armies equipped. Where the government can, and must be read upon to care for the health of its soldiery, only individual discretion can be looked to preserve in full vitality this enormously important body of citizens of older age. Today what was previously merely the duty of such men owed to themselves and their families has become a duty of self preservation owing to the state, and at a time when every individual is fated to make for depletion of their energies. A nation at war feels a continuous pressure of nervous excitement, frequently more injurious to the masses of the population at home than the men serving with the colors, although its symptomatic manifestations are more subtly expressed. It applies to all classes, from laborers and skilled workmen to executives. Unfortunately, it applies usually more injuriously to those classes whose numbers are fewest while their usefulness to the state is most nearly indispensable. For every person is a relatively poor in the brains, energy and initiative essential for the industrial co-ordinations of war; and it is precisely these exceptional men who, in their respective fields, respond most readily to the exhaustive stimuli of war activities, give of themselves most lavishly, and succumb in largest proportion.

The past winter, and the current spring, have been very clearly indicative of the steadily rising tide of mortality due to these subtle influences and to their depletion of vitality. In no other "cause of death" has the fact been so apparent as in pneumonia, peculiarly a middle and old age disease, which has attained proportions unusual in the United States.

There have been many cases where nervousness has brought disaster, but this only results when the nervous system breaks away from control. A player can be kept to a high standard and still have a very quiver of it held with an iron grip. You never saw a football game where most of those on the field at the kickoff were not extremely nervous as the whistle blew. When Post Meets Post.
[Philadelphia Public Ledger:] A number of literary men and also a number of others with literary aspirations had assembled at a dinner. Two minor poets became engaged in conversation.

"I saw your spring poem in the Wonder Magazine," said one.
"Did you?" questioned the other, becoming suddenly animated.
"Yes, and I heard rather a neat compliment passed on it by a young woman."

"What did she say?"
"She wanted to know if I had written it."

[Santa Fe New Mexican:] It was small Gilbert's sad fate to suffer the attentions of a well-meaning doctor.

"Put out your tongue, my boy," the persecutor said.
Gilbert feebly produced the tip of that member.

"No, no, put it right out," the doctor said.
Gilbert shook his head weakly and tears gathered in his eyes.

"I can't," he cried. "It's fastened on."

Wrestlers.
STRANGLER TO MEET THE FINN.*Promoter Must Have Hung up Big Purse.*Looks Like a Long-winded Endurance Bout.*Stecher will Consent to Meet the Winner.

BY HOWARD ANGUS.

Surprising news comes from Chicago. Olin the Finn and Strangler Lewis have been matched to wrestle there May 2, at the Coliseum A. C. The result will be one of the best wrestling matches held in the United States and the winner will be recognized as the only legitimate challenger of Joe Stecher in the world.

A MIRACLE.

But what's surprising everybody is how any promoter was ever able to get the two together. Both have been laying for Joe Stecher and passing up the other. Each was afraid to take the chance of being defeated and losing out on the money that a contest between himself and Joe Stecher would bring. Either was perfectly willing to wrestle the other, but only after both had their chance with the world's champion.

The contest between the two will be a test of long strength and endurance. Olin and Lewis are noted for these qualities. In the past they have won out all opponents. Neither is scientific. Lewis has two excellent holds—the headlock and toe hold. With these exceptions his offense is weak. Olin is a strong, burly Graco-Roman wrestler, with much strength and little science.

TOUGH GUYS.

What they lack in offense, however, they make up in defense. It is practically impossible to pin Lewis, he's so strong. In two and a half years, he's not lost a fall. Strangler to say, Gus Kervoras was the last wrestler to throw Lewis. It begins to look like the bull who wins will have to wear the other and the contest may last all night. The majority of wrestling fans pick Lewis to win somewhere in the morning hours. They took up on Olin's contest with Stecher as more or less of a joke. This impression has been strengthened by the refusal of Olin to meet anybody except Stecher. He even stepped Bill Demetree.

SAFETY FIRST.

On the other hand, Lewis has been picking his opponents with a fine comb himself. He wasn't just crazy over the idea of meeting either Demetree or Kervoras. The real reason for Lewis and Olin meeting instead of waiting for Stecher is the champion himself. Stecher said to Olin, "I'll wait until you're ready, any time, but winner takes all." "For the love of Mike," complained Olin in Finland, "the reason is, Where do I come in?" "If you're the champ you claim," Stecher always answered snidely. "I'd think you'd like this winner take all noise."

But Olin didn't, and so negotiations ended.

And the champion made the same talk to Lewis.

NO RACING.

"Yes, I'll wrestle you, Strangler," said the champion, "only this time you sign to wrestle and not run away. We'll put coupons in the tickets and if neither of us has secured a fall in two hours and a half the crowd gets its money back. And, oh, yes, this contest is to be held in Omaha before the people who saw you run away before. They must see you wrestle."

"Where do you get that noise?" protested the champion. "We ain't running a charity entertainment. What you trying to do, get funny?"

And the champion answered snidely, too. "No, just stage a real wrestling match, where the crowd sees wrestling and not hours upon hours of stalling."

"And if your greatest wrestler in the world as you say are that's the only kind of a match you'll want. Real champions don't run away."

ALL-OFF.

At the point all negotiations for a Lewis-Stecher match always came to a close.

No in despair, seeing that Stecher wanted wrestling matches in which the winner received the money, Olin and Lewis decided to eliminate each other. Only they don't call the match an elimination.

"This," they cry in chorus, "is for the world's championship. Stecher has eliminated himself by refusing to meet us. The winner will be champion and Mr. Stecher will have to eat salt."

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

The rice market has soared out of sight. For many months rice continued to drag along at the same old prices notwithstanding the fact that practically all food commodities were going higher and higher. When seasons reached their peak during the winter months many food exporters suggested that the rice market substitute rice for potatoes but their advice went unheeded. Rice prices, however, have changed during January, February and March, but beginning about the first of the present month values began to climb and today quotations are approaching the same level as dried beans, although the very best grades of rice can still be purchased at prices considerably under those ruling for white, pink and lima beans. However, the demand for rice during the next two weeks equals that shown for the staple during the past ten days it may be expected that values will advance much more rapidly than they are at the present moment. Extra fancy head Carolina is now bringing 37¢ and 38¢, the medium grades cannot be secured for less than 35¢ to 36¢ and today when these prices are compared to those in force several months ago it is readily seen that values are high.

Strawberry is lower and the better grades of the popular vegetable were selling yesterday for $1.40 a bushel. The demand for strawberries is now at a hundred at $1.50 and dealers report an increasing demand for the fruit which means further advances in the near future, unless the present heavy demand should abate. In the dried bean list Manchurian reds are now quoted at 30¢ and 31¢, while small extra beans are bringing the same figure. All kinds of green vegetables are very firm and it would seem likely that values will be boosted higher in the next few days. Fresh extra extra advanced to 22¢ cents a bushel at yesterday morning's session. The market for mixed colors and pullets remained the same as on Saturday. According to Secretary Hixon, the total number of chickens of 1917, 1,670,000 pounds of butter, 13,670 pounds of cheese, 1,670 pounds of eggs, 1,670 pounds of butter and 2,688 boxes of apples.

SHORB FUNERAL.

Body of Mrs. J. de Barth Shorb to be Brought South for Burial Thursday and Solemn High Mass will be Sung at Old Mission.

The funeral of the late Mrs. J. de Barth Shorb, whose death in San Francisco came as a shock to her many friends, will be held on Thursday at San Gabriel, and not on Wednesday, as at first announced.

The change is owing to delay in the arrival from Washington, D. C., of Mrs. C. D. Buck, a daughter.

The body will be taken from the train at Pasadena and conveyed to the old mission at San Gabriel, where a solemn high mass will be sung in honor of the memory of Mrs. Shorb.

RULES FOR POLICE CONDUCT OUTLINED.

AS JUDGMENT IS GIVEN FOR A FALSE ARREST.

Former Association with Criminals or Refusal to Give Personal Information to Officer Does Not Justify Taking Person into Custody, Court Declares.

C. C. Stocker, a young man, was given a nominal judgment of $50 against Hubert Kittle, formerly a special officer of the police department, by Judge McCormick yesterday.

The action was for false arrest, and the court stated the judgment would have been for a larger amount if greater damages had been shown. Mr. Stocker asked $15,000 damages.

It appeared Mr. Stocker had gone with a friend and the latter's wife to Main-street dance hall. Several witnesses testified that he was under the influence of liquor and staggered, but Mr. Stocker said that was because he did not dance well.

When he was called out of the hall and arrested, he had been sitting by himself. He gave his name to the officer, but refused other information. He was booked as a vagrant.

Judge McCormick laid down these rules governing a policeman's conduct: If an arrest is made without a warrant, the officer must be able to show that the person arrested was under the influence of liquor and was a vagrant.

When a citizen is committing no offense an officer may not arrest him on the ground the person formerly consorted with criminals. His refusal to give information when demanded by the officer is not justification for arrest.

Mr. Kittle, now a railroad fireman, justified his act by the representation that Mr. Stocker had formerly associated with criminals.

INVESTOR DUPED?

Actor States He Put Five Thousand Dollars into Company Because of False Representations.

Suit for Recovery is up for Decision.

Whether Alford W. Wilson, an actor, invested $5,000 in the stock of the Wade Encustic Tile and Pottery Company through alleged fraudulent representations, is the question involved in his suit against Allan W. Black, former vice-president and general manager of the corporation, to recover the money he put into the concern. This action, tried by Judge Hewitt several weeks ago, was argued and submitted yesterday.

The corporation was organized in this city in 1911. It bought five acres on a contract for $18,000 and sold stock to put up the buildings. William Wade, an Englishman, since dead, held the franchise for making tiles, declaring it had been a great success in England. Mr. Wilson stated it was represented to him that the venture was a good thing; that the company would shortly pay dividends and had obtained good contracts. He testified that the alleged representations did not hold up after he bought the stock.

It developed that the corporation has been reorganized and it is a going concern now. Through Attorney Jutten, it was denied that conditions were misrepresented to Mr. Wilson. On the contrary, it was set up that Mr. Wilson invested in the stock as a prospective chance to make money. Mr. Wilson was represented by Attorney Muhleman and Crump and Frank Simpson.

Wilson, who is now in the city, is expected to figure in the trial of the case of the late Mrs. J. de Barth Shorb.

HUGE SHIPYARD FOR THIS PORT.

If Council Sets Aside Site by Ordinance Today.

Millions to be Invested and Thousands Employed.

Building of Craft Can Begin Within Ninety Days.

Giving employment to more than 1000 trained mechanics, and representing an investment of from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000, a dry dock and shipbuilding plant will be constructed at the harbor, upon city property, if the Council today adopts an ordinance setting aside seventy acres for the site. This statement was made yesterday by Mayor Woodman, following a conference with Samuel L. Naphtaly of Port Richmond, and several northern business men who are interested in the project.

The enabling measure was prepared yesterday and will be given serious consideration by the Council this morning. Several of the members discussed the proposed ordinance yesterday with the Mayor and said they would give it their enthusiastic endorsement.

PROMISE QUICK WORK.

Representatives of the concern bidding for the site have given assurance that actual work of construction will be started within ten days after the property is leased, and that the concern will be repairing and building ships within ninety days.

The dry-dock, which the city would have been compelled to build sooner or later, will be large enough to accommodate ships of 18,000 tons. The Mayor said he did not feel at liberty yesterday to divulge the names of the people who are financially interested in the project.
